Jesus is Christ

Lesson for February 18, 1951 TT SOUNDS odd to modern ears I (or to any ear for the past 18 centuries) to say that Jesus "is" Christ. It sounds like saying Abraham is Lincoln, or Winston is Churchill. "Jesus Christ" has become long since a proper name like any other comb of name and sur name. But in the early days of Chris tianity it took ser mons to persuade people that Jesus was indeed the Dr Foreman Christ; and if people knew what "Christ" means, they would see that most sermons today are really aimed at convincing people of the same thing: Jesus is Christ. When Peter said to Jesus "You are the Christ," Jesus' reply shows that Peter had not only said something important, but something which up to that time had not dawned on any one else. . . .

Only One Christ WE shall have to think what the word "Christ" meant as Peter used the word and as Jesus understood it. The Jews of that time were looking with eager excitement for an "ancinted one" (the literal meaning of Christ, or Messiah) who would put an end to all the evil of the world and usher in God's New Age. They were not quite clear how this would be done, but the were sure that only the Christ could do it. Consider three points. First, when Peter said "You are Christ" he meant "You are unique." No Jew looked for two Christs. There is no one else in Jesus' class, there is only one of him. Every human being, to be sure, is different from all others; but Simon Peter did not mean that. What he did mean was that Jesus could not be classed as "a" teacher or "a" prophet or "a" man of God. He was the Teacher and Prophet. He was God's Man as no other man was. We make a mistake, we get away from the original Christian faith, the faith which Jesus praised, when we put Jesus on the same level with other men, any other men. There is only one Christ.

God Was in Christ TN the second place, when Peter alled Jesus "Christ" he meant that God had anointed him. He was not a man who took a notion to do what he did; he was one whom God had appointed to be and to do as God willed. We cannot understand Jesus apart from God, for his source is God.

Any one who reads the gospel of John will find this very prominent in Jesus' thinking always: "I was sent Ty ricat is to do the will of him that sent me." Christians later than this saw that the relation between God and Jesus was even closer than that between sender and sent. Je us is called the Son of God, he is called the Word that was with God and was God, Paul says God was in Later generations would develop the doctrine of the Trinity as it is expressed (for instance) in the Nicene Creed. Every century ha its own formulas. Peter in the first century does not use the language of the fourth century, still less of the 20th; but all the formulas express in various ways the conviction Peter had: that when Christ confronts us, God confronts us . . .

Christ Is Lord of Ail A THIRD thing Peter meant when he called Jesus "Christ" and that the church means now-is that he has complete authority. All other authority, in the church or out of it, is less than his. A word often used to express this truth is "Lord." But the word alone is not enough. It really makes less difference

what words we use about Jesus

than what our attitude to him is. Jesus himself once spoke sternly of people who call him "Lord, Lord," but do not do the things he says to do. It is one thing to say, in the Creed, that we believe in "Jesus Christ, his only Son, our Lord;" it is another thing to carry that part of the creed into life. Jesus is our Lord; not the church, not Moses, not Paul, not any hero or saint of the church, but Jesus. Christians take orders from him first of all. for we believe that his mind was the mind of God.

A Christian profession of faith, therefore, is more than a statement of belief; it is an oath of allegiance. (Copyright by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations, Released by WNU Features.)

Westinghouse Lamp Division is pleased to announce the building of a new lamp plant at Reform.

The new plant, located about 34 miles northwest of Tuscaloosa, will be the first Westinghouse plant in Alabama to manufacture consumer goods. Within a few weeks, work will begin on the L-shaped, 150,000-square-foot plant. It will be situated on a 50-acre plot facing Alabama Highway 17.

This will be the tenth plant of the Westinghouse Lamp Division, which makes over 10,000 types and sizes of lamps. It will employ 400 people, nearly all of them from Pickens County. These are the kind of people with whom Westinghouse likes to work.

Other important factors in the site choice were the availability of natural gas and electricity, and transportation. A prime factor was the nearness to, and central location in, a rapidly expanding and healthy marketing area. Other Westinghouse operations in Alabama include company sales offices in Mobile and Birmingham. And soon a new Birmingham plant will manufacture and repair large electrical equipment.

Boston Baked Beans Served With Molasses Distinction

Come Saturday night, many a New England household sits to a repast of appetizing, molasses-sweetened baked beans plus brown bread. Since to savor these two foods is to pass the word along, enjoyment of them has spread across the country. The molasses called for in the baked bean dish is unsulphured...the sweet, aromatic kind New Englanders have been using since colonial days.

MOBILE

The first permanent white settlement on Alabama soil was made in 1702 by Sir Pierre Le Moyne Iberville and his followers. He built a fort at Twenty-Seven Mile Bluff on Mobile River. The Colony remained here until 1711 at which time it was moved to the present location of Mobile so that the Colony could protect the mouth of the Mississippi and watch the British on the Atlantic coast. Today, Mobile is proud of its old homes and churches and here is one of the most modern ports in the United States, with huge docks and storage warehouses.

The Japanese have always considered it proper to show "courtesy" to offi cials of all ranks in the form of expensive entertainment, present and gifts of money. These presents, depending on cit cumstances, may or may not have been motivated by hope of securing profitable government contracts or influencing legislation. The custom was widespread, ex tending even to low-rank officials. and generally was considered proper Officials accented these courtesies as their right and the gifts helped supplement the low salaries which all Japanese officials re-Another custom was the Japanese officials have been provided with a cash reserve which they could spend as they wished, for entertaining other officials, or for expenses while traveling on government business. An accounting was not required. All these customs are made public with the announcement of a investigation into spending by Jap anese officials. And it has brought the bizarre complaint from some Japanese leaders that the "den cratic ideals" of the west are ireconcilable with the traditions of the land of the rising sun.
